Services Conducted at Edinburgh for Father of Local Woman

Edinburg - Funeral services were to be held this afternoon at the Farr & Gosney chapel for Nathan J. Adair, 84, well known Edinburg resident, who died Saturday evening at his home on Main street from injuries sustained in a fall several weeks ago.

The Rev. Ellsworth Ewing, pastor of the Edinburg Methodist church, of which Mr. Adair was a member, was to be in charge. Burial was to be in Rest Haven cemetery.

service, where have you lived since, & where do you now live?

A— I was living in what is now called York District So. Ca. during the war I removed to what was then called Craven County, now Chester District So. Ca. and have lived in Chester District ever since, and live there now.

Q 2— How were you called into the service were you drafted, did you volunteer, or were you a substitute, and if so for whom?

A— I was a Volunteer every time I entered the service.

Calculation at least three months - They marched to the head of Clinch River, a place called the Elk Garden, and Blackmores Fort - It was against the Indians they marched - It must have been as near as they can recollect in the latter part of year 1776 or the year
the early part of 1777 - The Indians were, as he was informed of the Shawnee tribe, and Commanded by a Chief Called Logan -

He says that in the year 1777 & 1778 as well as he now recollects, he was drafted as a private in the militia
for the term of six months - He then lived in Sullivan County North Carolina, Capt. George Brooks Commanded the Company when raised - They marched over the County about the head of Clinch River and sometimes on the head waters of Big Sandy - He thinks that during that six months tour, they had no
very important engagement - they marched against the Indians, and had frequent skirmishes - One he recollects about the place called the Elk Garden - He thinks that after he served six months, he was discharged and returned home to Sullivan County,

he stated, that he never received a written discharge
but has lost the original, as he cannot find it —
He states, that in the spring following
he volunteered as a private in the Militia Volunteered in Sullivan County
N. C. to watch the Indians as a Spy,
in the Company Commanded by Capt.
Elliot. He thinks by own name was James.
He states that he served about the head
waters of Clynch — also on the Elk Kentucky Road, and frequently near a place called Flat Lick. He states that he was to receive $1.50 a day for his services, but never received any thing —
He states, that he served three months
as a Spy in that Company and was then discharged — He received a written Discharge but from the great length of time, and not viewing it as of much importance to him, he has lost it —

He states, that the next year in the Spring
he drafted about the 1st of March by Father-in-law
as a private under Major Sevier to march and be posted at the mouth of the north fork of Holston, to defend the frontiers from the depredations of the Indians. He states that he marched & went in the place of his Father
That he was stationed principally at the fort at the

Birth: Mar. 6, 1821
Brookville

Indiana, USA

Death: Aug. 26, 1889
Brookville
Franklin County
Indiana, USA

John G. Adair and Ellen Goodwin John Adair had eight children. Five of those eight included Anna M. Adair b. 1860 IN, Martha C. 'Mattie' Adair b. 1862 IN, John 'George' Adair b. 1864 IN, Catharine F. Adair b. 1867 IN, and Nellie O. Adair b. 1872 IN. According to census records, John was a banker.

"John G. Adair was born in Brookville, Ind. March 6th, 1821, and died August 26th, 1889, aged 68 years. He lived and died in the place of his birth. His father John Adair, came from South Carolina to Brookville, at an early day and opened what was known as the 'Adair Hotel.' He kept this tavern (as it was then called) until his death in 1831. He served as a soldier in the war of 1812. In 1817 he was joined in marriage to a Miss Trusler, of Virginia, remarkable for her energy and force of character. After the death of her husband she conducted the tavern for several years. She died at the ripe age of 90 years. John G. Adair was a lad of 10 years when his father died, but stood by his mother in her hour of need and loneliness. Subsequently he and a brother-in-law became proprietors of the hotel and conducted it for many years. In politics he has never been offensive and never held a public office, but has ever held positive and pronounced views as a republican. In his business life he has been a prominent figure in the history of Brookville and Franklin county, having been director and president of the Brookville National Bank. Also a partner in the milling business and machine shops and a prominent stock-holder in the hydraulic company. All this at home, while he and his life-long friend Wm. Butler, have had many business interests away from Brookville. There are other phases of his life more interesting than the ones just named. Among these may be mentioned his domestic life. In 1853 he was married to Ellen G. John, daughter of Robert and Martha John. The John family was remarkable in many regards, as being long-lived and holding positions of honor and trust under the government. Few, if any families in the state were better and more favorably known. The venerable widow of Robert John and the mother of Ellen G. John, is still among the living and was present at the funeral. As a husband and father, the deceased is best and most tenderly and affectionately known. Few, if any, have ever been blest with a more kind and considerate and loving husband than she who mourns her loss. No wonder the nights and days were never too long or too full of other duties that she had not time to watch and wait by his side. She was giving to him only that devotion and service which he would have given to her if the order had been reversed. But it should be said in all justice that a greater devotion and a more constant and unwearying service to a husband has seldom been witnessed than that of the wife of the deceased. No wonder that he thought his wife better than any other. Not only was he a kind husband but an indulgent and loving father, anticipating the very wishes of his children. If he made any mistake at all it was on the side of love. It is not strange that their hearts should be filled with sorrow at the loss of such a father. He was not selfish and narrow in his devotion to his own children. His only grand-child, Frank West, was as dear to him as his own and as he neared the shadows of death the presence of this child seemed as necessary to his comfort as that of the members of his own household. And how he clung to his only sister and her husband and was only satisfied when they were with him. Indeed, all his relatives and friends were dear to him whether rich or poor. One of the most touching incidents during his sickness occurred one afternoon when he saw an old wood-sawyer whom he had known a long time passing his window. He had him called in and talked to him as though he were a millionaire. John G. Adair was a charitable man - he was not stingy. No one could suffer with his knowledge, if he had the power to relieve him. None will miss him more than the poor of Brookville. He was a christian man - loving and supported all the great enterprises of the church of Jesus Christ, attended the services of the sanctuary and was greatly disappointed when not able to be present, talking about it from week to week, hoping that he might be able to go by the next Sabbath. But for months past he has not been permitted to attend the services of the church, because of sickness. In the life of the deceased his family have had about all that could be wished for, in an earthly life - devoted husband, kind father, loving brother, true friend and good citizen. They have had him with them as long as could be reasonably expected. He lived to a fair age - far above the average and he has died full of good works and promises for the future. The decease occurred on Monday morning at 1 o'clock, in his own home, surrounded by his devoted family and loving friends. The funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon from his late residence, attended by a large concourse of relatives, neighbors and friends. Revs. Duncan, Adriance, Moore and Chaffee participating in the service. His body was laid to rest in the family lot in the old cemetery to await the resurrection of the just." ADAIR

In the County of Limerick in Ireland, ADAIR, was a place name. It literally means the Foard of the Oak tree. Adair is derived from Celtis and Gaelion Ath A foard, and Dair or Dara., the Oak tree.

Adare in the County of Limerick in Ireland was always called in Irish documents, Ath-dara; the foard of the Oak tree. It shows that a great Oak tree must have shaded the ford which in ancient times crossed the Migue River. The dictionary of Surnames defines the name Adair - a dweller at the Foard of the Oaks.

Adair, a branch of Anglo-Hibernian Family of FitzGeralds, acquired the local surname when they settled at Adare in County Limerick. Robert FitzGerald deAdair after family feuds, moved to Galloway, Scotland, in the 14th century and dropping the patronymic designation, called himself Adair.

LINE B, THOMAS ADAIR FAMILY

James, probably the eldest son of the emigrant Thomas, became an authorit on Indians and traveled among them a great deal. He was the author of som of the foremost works on the subject which are in existence today. His eldes child was James, Jr., who married a Miss Kilgore and settled in North Carolina.

Joseph, son of the emigrant Thomas, has issue by his first wife Sarah Lafert of Pennsylvania, of Joseph, James, Benjamin, Leah, Sarah, and Mary. By hi second wife, Susana Long of South Carolina, he had an only son who died young William, probably the youngest son of the emigrant Thomas, married Mar Moore and removed in the latter part of his life to Kentucky. His children wer Betsy, John, William, James, Mary, and Alexander.

Another early emigrant of the name to America was the Honorable Johi Adair, who came from the County of Antrim, Ireland, to Knoxville, Tennesse about the middle of the eighteenth century or a little later. His wife is believe to have been Ellen Crawford and to have had several children by him, amon whom was a daughter named Mary and probably a son named John.

The descendants of these various branches of the family in America hav spread to practically every State of the Union and have aided as much in th growth of the country as their ancestors aided in the founding of the nation They have been noted for their courage, energy, ambition, industry, piety integrity, moral and physical strength, will-power, preseverance, and resource fulness.

Among those of the Adairs who fought in the War of the Revolution wa Major John Adair of South Carolina, who was Aide-de-camp to General Sumter There was also a James Adair on the Massachusetts rolls and a John and Willian Adair (of whom the last is said to have had two sons also in the service) or the South Carolina records.

Robert, James, William, John, Thomas, Patrick, Alexander, Archibald, an Joseph are some of the Christian names most highly favored by the family fo its male members.

What's in Your Name?

BY CHARLES GUARNO

(Note: This has been re-typed for clarity only.)

Famous legends are sometimes woven around surnames, especially those of Scotch-Irish origin. Research into the Adair name provides tales of a swash-buckling age.

History records that Robert, grandson of Thomas, 6th Earl of Desmond, slew Gerald the White Knight in single combat at Athdare and in token of his victory received the name of Athdare or Adair. He later went to Scotland, during the early part of the 15th century, and married Arabella, the daughter of John Campbell, Lord of Argyle.

Yet a second legend revolves around Robin Adair, a legendary Scotsman made famous by the old popular ballad.

The meaning of the name, coming from the Celtic word 'adare', is "the ford or the oaks" or "Oakford".

This surname claims both Scottish and Irish ancestry, believed to have originated in Scotland possibly as a form of Edgar. Adairs were located in Galloway prior to 1388.

The Adair was taken to Ireland somewhat later by the Scotch and became prominent in Ulster. It was also an anglicized form of O'Daire, formerly found Offaly. Willilam Adair of Wigtownshire settled at Ballymacloss, county Antrim and became a denizen of Irelend at Ballymenain 1624. Adairs possessed some 25,000 acres of land in Donegal and Leix. Other important estates were held in counties Ulster and Queens.

The most significant armorial bearing for the Adair surname is a silver shield bearing a blue lion rampant and three red hands. Parts of the human body were more often found as symbols on arms than the whole figure. The hand signified defense or protection.

THE WILL OF JOSEPH ADAIR, SR.

Joseph Adair, Sr. was a soldier in the Revolution, was Commissary of Co. D, Col. Casy's Regiment, at the age of seventy years.

During the hottest part of the Revolutionary War, about 1780, the Tories burned the Courthouse at Laurens, also the private residences of many of the prominent Adairs, and thus destroyed the priceless records up to that date. Therefore, we have depended for data on the later County Records, Histories of South Carolina, Civil, Military, and Religious; Family Bible Records, and Traditions.

James Trusler was born November 7, 1755 in Amherst Co., Virginia. He married Susannah Wilson in 1776 in Augusta Co., VA. He moved from Amherst County to Washington County about 1785 to 1787 and then to Franklin Co., Indiana about 1811 where he died on September 5, 1844. It appears that his tombstone was placed with the wrong date of death, not of his but of his wife Susannah who died on March 6, 1852.

Description

This database is a collection of middle school, junior high, high school, and college yearbooks from across the United States. While yearbooks may not provide information about the vital events that are usually associated with genealogical research, they do provide other information about individuals' lives. This information helps place people in historical context as well as provides detail that helps turn individuals, sometimes only known by names and dates, into actual people. Learn more...
